Code Review

Vimeo Downloader

README is well laid out; I feel as though I would be able to follow your instructions and get everything working properly.

Looking through main.py: I can get a general sense for what the program is doing, but I think having more comments would be beneficial. That said, the function names serve well enough to describe what the function is supposed to be doing. The formatting is really well done, the code is easy to follow.

Reel Downloader

ReadME is well laid out, though I would recommend changing it to README.md for consistency. The steps make sense to me.

Similar to the Vimeo Downloader feedback, more comments would be helpful, but I get a basic enough understanding of the intent through the function name. It is well formatted again.
